

Crimes & Punishment

(Before any punishment is reported, the offender and anyone involved with the situation regarding the crime must be contacted about it to ensure an accurate and unbiased report. Any reports issued without following this rule should be removed immediately. If a crime is not reported within 7 days of it being committed, the report will be invalidated. In the case of evidence being withheld, the 7 day timer will start the second evidence is made available. The MP CO and HeadQuarters may override this rule.) By definition, a serious crime is a crime that has a 4 class increase.

The act of attempting to commit any of the following crimes will be considered the same as committing them.

This basically means that a person should not do something that would clearly cause some kind of trouble or where their actions could have some form of a negative impact. Even if it by other ML specifications is not technically a violation. They may be reported for immaturity, as it is immature and unprofessional to not think about the consequences before ones own actions. This only applies if no other part of ML is violated, as this is a lighter reason and punishment for a report, meant to close any loopholes of people simply doing something considered to be borderline crime.
  - Example: Someone is acting childish but not exactly by immaturity's standards but still doing it knowingly that it can cause problems.
- Sending emojis of any kind that aren't stated in the whitelisted
- All Personnel need to use a realistic skin tone. This also applies to Militia who are in a regiment. But does not apply to non regimental Militia. Gloves are an exception to this rule and are not bound by skin tone laws.
- All Personnel are not allowed to wear any kind of packages in-game.
- All Personnel are not allowed to purposefully mess/fool around within any on-duty location. However this does not include the act of pretend humping the person behind them. However if asked to stop, this can still be punished for insubordination.

  - This rule is not used in Fun CA wide events as long as you aren't bothering anyone else.
